Dear Ms. Schmidt and Gentlemen:

Tonight, you are receiving and introducing the proposed 1981 Civil City budget.

Many times in the past weeks, I have stated publicly that the City of Fort Wayne will be in extremely tight fiscal condition during the upcoming year. No longer will we be able to put a cushion into the budget of individual departments --- in order to assist them six months into the new year. This time, the budget we are proposing will be the actual monies we have to work with. That is the budget I am submitting to you this evening.

I have called upon all my department heads to exercise continual vigilance over the monies that will be allocated for their individual services. I have emphasized to them that it will be necessary for them to fully utilize their sense of business judgement, strong management techniques, and an understanding of economic factors.

This budget does not carry any non-essentials. As you will easily recognize, the emphasis of this budget is on improved public safety services -- highlited by the addition of 17 police officers, 12 EMS technicians, one Advanced Life Support ambulance, and 3 additional personnel for the Humane Commission. The other primary concern of my Administration -- highly visible in this budget -- is the maintenance of the City's already high-quality services.

I would remind you again of the extremely bleak economic factors which are affecting this proposed budget. Unless the City of Fort Wayne receives additional monies in 1982, this will be the last time I will be able to submit to you a balanced budget that will maintain such high quality city services.

Having served for 8 years as a member of the Common Council, I am quite aware of the weight you are shouldering in order to respond fairly and efficiently to your state-mandated task to review and authorize this budget. Let me assure you that I, as Mayor, have taken this responsibility of yours into consideration as I furnish you a no-frill, balanced 1981 Civil City Budget.

Sincerely,

Win Moses, Jr.
Mayor
